DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fujinaka (6,703,753).

Regarding claim 1, Fujinaka shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention in Figures 1D-1F and column 15, lines 10-30.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nishiyama et al. (6,356,001) in view of Burgbacher (5,757,100).

Regarding claims 1 and 2, Nishiyama et al. shows a permanent magnet synchronous motor comprising:

- A stator, comprising:
- A cylindrical stator core in which $3n$ teeth are disposed at a predetermined pitch in a circumferential direction where n is a positive integer, slots being formed between adjacent pairs of said teeth so as to open onto an inner circumferential side; and
- A stator coil installed as a concentrated winding in said stator core; and
- A rotor rotatably disposed inside said stator, $2n$ permanent magnets being disposed at a predetermined pitch in a circumferential direction on an outer peripheral portion of said rotor,

Nishiyama et al. does not show said stator core being constructed such that a slot opening (d) and a slot pitch (p) at an inner circumferential surface of said stator core satisfy an expression $0.1 \leq d/p \leq 0.3$.

Burgbacher shows said stator core being constructed such that a slot opening (d) and a slot pitch (p) at an inner circumferential surface of said stator core satisfy an expression $0.1 \leq d/p \leq 0.3$ (column 13, lines 5-15) for the purpose of reducing cogging torque.

Since Nishiyama et al. and Burgbacher are all from the same field of endeavor; the purpose disclosed by one inventor would have been recognized in the pertinent art of the others.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to set the ratio d/p within 0.1 and 0.3 as taught by Burgbacher for the purpose discussed above.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 3-6 are allowed.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the record of prior art does not show a permanent-magnet synchronous motor comprising a stator with $3n$ teeth and a rotor with $2n$ permanent magnets, wherein said stator core is constructed such that a slot opening (d) and a thickness (h) of first and second circumferential end portions on an inner circumferential end of said teeth satisfy an expression $0.2 \leq h/d \leq 0.7$.
